How did she get her name?
PS Pevensey is named after a sheep property on the Murrumbidgee River called “Pevensey Station”. PS is an abbreviation for “Paddle Steamer”.

What job did she do?
PS Pevensey carried 120 tons of cargo. She collected bales of wool from station properties and brought them to the wharf at the Port of Echuca. From there, the wool was loaded onto trains and taken to Melbourne for shipping overseas.

How did she do her job?
Beneath the front and back decks there are large spaces called holds, in which the cargo is stored. The cargo can be piled so high that it is up to the wheelhouse. PS Pevensey can carry 815 bales of wool and a total of 2,000 bales when barges are towed along behind. PS Pevensey’s barge was named “Ada” which now sits on land at the Moama Slip. A tow line (rope) is attached to the front of the barge and then tied to the tow post at the top of the paddlesteamer. This enables the barge to be towed along behind.

What happened after the river trade era?
When the river trade ended PS Pevensey was tied up at Mildura. She came to Echuca to be restored in 1973. Fixing the boat was no easy task - for the first year high rivers prevented much work being carried out. Each piece of new timber for the hull was matched against the original then cut to shape using an “adze” - a technique used by boat builders for centuries.

What does she do today?
Today trucks carry cargo, so PS Pevensey works as a tourist boat for Echuca Paddlesteamers where she departs daily from the Echuca Wharf. PS Pevensey is able to carry up to 100 passengers on each cruise.

What is special about PS Pevensey?
PS Pevensey is an authentic paddlesteamer with her original steam engine. She is the oldest paddlesteamer currently operating in Echuca and offers her visitors the opportunity to discover what life was like during the riverboat trade – she is a floating museum. PS Pevensey is “a genuine old paddlesteamer” (TripAdvisor) and is very interactive for both adults and children – come on board and watch the Engineer operate the boiler, or for the kids, come and steer with the skipper and receive a First Mate Certificate!

PS Pevensey is also known all over the world for her starring role as “Philadelphia” in the Australian television mini-series “All the Rivers Run”, made in Echuca in 1982-1983.

WELCOME ABOARD
For a Truly Unique & Memorable Experience
Our Venue

Echuca Paddlesteamers are committed to the preservation and promotion of Australia's unique Paddlesteamer history. The P.S. Pevensey was built in 1911 at Moama slipway.

We provide our guests with a glimpse of life onboard a working paddlesteamer as it was during the late 1800's and early 1900's. This incredible paddlesteamer is maintained and preserved to original standards using traditional shipwright methods handed down from previous generations.

Although our major commodity has changed from carrying wool to people, our paddlesteamer still uses the original steam engine, fired with local redgum wood, the same as they did during the riverboat era of the late 1800's.

Echuca is ideally located on the banks of the Murray River, and at the border of Victoria and New South Wales and the closest point of the Murray to Melbourne, a 2 ½ hour drive north (205km's).

Our Paddlesteamer is known internationally from her starring role as the P.S. Philadelphia in the mini series “All The Rivers Run” and has been proudly accepted into the Australian Register of Historic Vessels, coordinated by the National Maritime Museum.
